SHAREPOINT PRACTICE

COMMITTED TO QUALITY, THOROUGHNESS, AND PRECISION

SharePoint is one of Microsoft's fastest growing products and is becoming one of the cornerstones of many organizations' IT strategies. SharePoint gives you the ability to collaborate together online, manage and organize data, build dashboards and online applications, automate business processes, and work together online seamlessly even from different geographic locations. It's easy to see why so many are investing in this platform, but getting started with SharePoint can be challenging. Bulletproof's SharePoint practice is there to help make the transition to SharePoint easy, or to work with you to enhance the SharePoint tools that you've already invested in. Our SharePoint practice is set up to help you in a variety of ways:

- Migrations
- Architecture & Custom Development
- Governance Consulting
- Staff Augmentation
- Ongoing Support Service

SharePoint Migrations

Whether you're migrating from an older version of SharePoint to a newer one, moving your content to SharePoint's Office365 cloud environment, or moving from an older system to SharePoint, our SharePoint practice can help make this transition easy. We've done migrations of all shapes and sizes and we have established the tools and approach that will make your move to SharePoint straightforward and pain-free.

SharePoint Architecture & Custom Development

Many of our customers use SharePoint as a platform to build tools and business processes that are tailored for their particular needs. Our SharePoint practice is equipped to create a scalable architecture and develop custom solutions for those who want to invest more deeply in their SharePoint solution. All of our development methodologies follow Microsoft's best practices so you can be sure that the solution we build for you will stand the test of time.

SharePoint Governance Consulting

We want to see companies that invest in SharePoint get the most out of it. The use of SharePoint in an organization will often evolve over time. The way that SharePoint is used when it is launched is often quite different from the way it used when it has been deployed for a few years. It is important to have the systems and processes in place to ensure that your SharePoint solution will grow with you so that you can take advantage of opportunities as they arise. Bulletproof helps its customers create governance plans that address their strategic, operational, and support needs over the long term so that you can get the most out of your solution.

SharePoint Staff Augmentation

The use of SharePoint is on the rise and many organizations have individuals or teams within their IT department who manage their SharePoint solutions. Sometimes though, you just need a little extra horsepower or some expertise in a particular area. Many of our customers choose to augment their team with a Bulletproof SharePoint expert who will work with their team for short or long-term engagements. This could be to help with a particular project, to provide for ongoing operational needs, or just to help smooth out the peaks and valleys of resource requirements.

SharePoint Ongoing Support Service

Some organizations will see the value in using SharePoint and want to invest in it, but may not necessarily have the in-house expertise to support it once it is launched. For them, Bulletproof has established a SharePoint support service to provide users the help that they need to get the most out of SharePoint. Users can contact the SharePoint Service Desk via phone or email and get the help they need immediately from a SharePoint expert.

Bulletproof has been providing value to our clients since 2001 and we want to be your Trusted IT Provider. We offer a suite of services including IT/Cybersecurity Services, Professional and Managed Services, as well as Education Services.
